

Center for Nonviolence Outcomes

We work really hard to ensure that the time clients spend with us is productive and gives them real life skills that they can take and use. We also recognized, based on recent research that the #1 predictor of success – outside of an individual's desire to change – is the relationship the client feels they have with their facilitator.

At two different points during the program, clients are asked to fill out surveys, anonymously, and place them in a locked box. Every quarter, the surveys are pulled and collated. Below are some of the results:

99% of male clients agree that they can apply the things they learned at the CFN in their own lives, with 77% strongly agreeing

97% of male clients agree that overall CFN has had a positive impact in their lives, with 71% strongly agreeing

98% of male clients agree that they were treated with respect by CFN staff, with 84% strongly agreeing
