

Thinking Errors

Change your thoughts and you change your world.

- Norman Vincent Peale

The Center for Nonviolence asks youth to answer the question

Why Try?

We work with youth to turn dangerous thinking patterns into positive ones that can help them reach their goals.

The certified facilitators of the Center facilitate the program by using dialogue, hands-on activities, and accountability logs.

We offer groups for young people between the ages of 7 and 17 whose thinking or choices have put themselves at risk.

All services offered in English and Spanish

Program goals:

Participants will learn to...

- Understand and take accountability for their thoughts, words, body language, and actions
- Change the patterns of indifference towards life... the "I don't care" attitude.
- Handle confrontational or risky situations
- Resist negative peer pressure
- Think critically about their life

How do we get started?

Call:

(260)456-4112 to sign-up for our next orientation

Location:

Center for Nonviolence
235 West Creighton Ave.
Fort Wayne, IN. 46807

Inspiring Change. One Person...One Family...One World